LOCAL ISSUES EASTOVER TOP ALL OTHERS

A State Often Goes to a Party on the Turn of a Purely Local Issue.

IRISH QUESTION
BIG ISSUE NOW

Cardinal Gibbons for Good Roads—Some Things They Do in East.

By G. A. MARTIN.
BALTIMORE, Md., May 27.—Political questions face the people of the east that are of the west think little of, or perhaps it is better to say that the people up here make issues of things that in the west don't allow to bother.

In the east, a state's vote nationally may turn on a local issue. A Republican may champion something that may affect the rest of the nation, yet carry his state because locally it is a big issue. A Democrat may be the man to be on the right side of the local issue and carry the state for his party.

West Leads Feasible.
Out to the west, we don't get very much excited over a new anti-Catholic organization in New York that has for its object the defeat of Irish Catholics for office. They have taken an great interest in whether DeValera goes back to Ireland as president or is captured by the English while he is trying to get back.

Up here it is different. They make a political issue of everything. DeValera is the man who has been here for so many years and in such large numbers. One ward in Baltimore probably has more of them than all of the state of Texas. Naturally, the man who must have the Irish vote is for the Irish republic.

For example, if the leader in the Irish ward backs everything anti-Irish and often the fact that president Wilson has an Irishman for a son-in-law, and draws out every set of the president that might be construed as favoring the Irish.

In every meeting I have attended here, some sort of a local question has been overhauled and the question of who will make the best president and has completely eliminated the national issue.

Even in a gathering of Democrats here to elect delegates to the convention.
